German Defenders In Robot Area Forced Out Of Rouen

British Troops Now Advancing On Robot Bases

Evacuation Of Rouen By

BRITISH PREPARE FOR ROBOT SMASH

By J. C. OESTRICHER
(U. S. Foreign Editor)

Speedy retribution for the Nazis who added a new horror to modern war by propelling robot bombs into England was promised today when hardpressed German troops abandoned the great French city of Rouen and began to fall back along the channel coast.

For the first time in days the British and Canadian army of Lieut. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey was able to open a new offensive which netted immediate results with German evacuation of Rouen and created the possibility of another speedy drive that eventually may equal Patton's amazing dash toward the tottering Reich.

In Homeland Defense

Strangely enough, for the first time since the war began, British ground troops now are fighting in actual defense of their homeland. For their objectives are the flying-bomb sites along the northern French coast of the Pas De Calais district. They are now in action against a super long-range artillery that since the day after the Allied invasion of France has been spreading death and desolation among their families and possessions at home.

"One more kilometre and one less bomb" was the slogan adopted by these Tommies as they swept on toward the east, coming ever closer to the sinister products of German military ingenuity that Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels boasted for a little while—would win the war for Adolf Hitler.

Move On Robot Areas

Until now the home armies of Britain have had to depend upon the air force to deal with the robots. But the time is fast approaching when Gen. Dempsey's men can come to grips with the Nazis who run these infernal machines, kill or capture them and raze the com-

Friday will mark the fifth anniversary of the outbreak of the present world war.

Add to the how-did-this-happen department: a large turtle squashed flat on Highland avenue, at the corner of Winter. The question is not "how did the turtle get squashed?"—that's obvious; but how did the darn thing get there in the first place?

There's a happy gathering of long time residents of New Castle this afternoon at "Big Run Falls." If you are not in the know, Big Run Falls is the predecessor of present day Cascade park. It's the 38th annual Old Timer's day at the park.

One week from today and New Castle's army of school children will start the trek back to school for the fall and winter. In some of the township high schools the get-away date will be Tuesday.

Remember Old Timer's Days of thirty years ago? The huge crowds that climbed aboard the open street cars that made the trip to the park via the southern route, Mill street, Long avenue, Hamilton street and out through the "cut."

Patton's Armored Columns Spread Dismay To Nazis

By MAJOR PAUL C. RABORG
(Written Especially For International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Patton's armored columns are again on the loose, spreading complete disorganization amongst Hitler's Nazi troops in France.

Gen. George S. Patton Jr.'s hard-driving, fast rolling 3rd army will accomplish the same work of destruction to the north and east of Paris that it did on the Brittany peninsula and the territory to the west of the French capital.

The 3rd armored and motorized army makes no effort to capture territory. Its objective is to disrupt all enemy defense efforts. In that, it has succeeded brilliantly and in so doing has secured vast areas of ground.

Smash Possible Defense Lines
The amazing results which have occurred to the north and east of Paris during the first two days of this week are in no sense happenstance. Gen. Patton's columns have crossed the Marne at Chateau-Thierry, Chalons Sur Marne and at Vitry. The Marne was a possible line of German defense extending southward from Paris.

But the tanks of that army have gone much farther. They have crossed the Aisne at Soisson, which

Smashing Ahead To Drive
Germans From Robot
Bomb Terror Sector

By DOON CAMPBELL

WITH THE BRITISH FORCES EAST OF THE SEINE, Tuesday Evening, Aug. 29.—(Delayed)—This is the proudest and greatest moment for thousands of British troops of General Dempsey's Second Army. They are fighting to liberate not France but southern England and London from the flying bomb terror.

They have as their motto "One more kilometre and one less bomb." It is the fastest British drive and the first major exploitation of British armor since D-Day.

At a forward headquarters today a general excused himself to me while he went to "tickle up" his armor—they had only gained nine miles in three hours!

Great News Coming

News which millions of home country civilians have been waiting to hear since the invasion in the west began is in the post. It will be greater news than the freeing of Paris.

All Of Warsaw Is Under Fire

LONDON, Aug. 30.—(INS)—All of Warsaw was under heavy artillery and mortar fire today, a communique issued by General Bor commander-in-chief of the Polish army, said.

The communique added that in the old city where fighting rages with undiminished intensity, the Poles have lost two strongpoints—the mint and the cathedral. The cathedral was said to have changed hands several times during the day.

"All attacks were repelled in the central district," the communique said.

"We made some local gains in the southern part and repelled three German counter-attacks. In the northern district the Germans have fortified positions covering the Vistula embankment. Some artillery fire could be heard from the east."

Japanese Agency Reports Shanghai Area Is Bombed

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(INS)—The Japanese Domei agency said today that "several enemy planes" had bombed the Shanghai area Tuesday night but quoted a "communique jointly issued by the Japanese army and navy press sections" as saying that the "nuisance raid" ended in "utter failure" with "absolutely no damage caused."

The communique said the raiders were "repulsed" by "extensive anti-aircraft fire."

The Domei dispatch was recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—(INS)—A Reuters dispatch from Moscow said today that Red army troops battling in the oil well zone of Romania are only 14 miles northeast of Ploesti and 45 miles north of the Romanian capital of Bucharest.

By NATALIA RENE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Aug. 30.—Red army legions, sweeping across Romania at electrifying speed, stood at the approaches of the rich Ploesti oilfields today and, as a result of the capture of the Black Sea port of Constanta, held control of the vital Ploesti-Constanta pipeline.

Russian amphibious forces occupied Constanta, which has a normal population of about 60,000, in a surprise 82-mile leap down the Black Sea coast.

Simultaneously, other Soviet forces, despite stiffening German resistance, drove to within 37 miles of the city of Ploesti itself and to within 57 miles of the Romanian capital of Bucharest.

fit with Gen. Giraud's Fourth French army, the famous Blue Devils. Giraud was the one-armed general. It was there that we saw the greatest artillery duel the world had ever known up to that time.

The Germans (we called them Huns or Boche in those days) had concentrated everything they could muster to try to turn Chalons for a drive on Paris. If they made it, they'd win the war. If they failed, they were through.

Allies Suffer Heavily

History says they failed but before we had suffered the greatest casualties we were to have in any one engagement. We had been raiding their lines for prisoners for several nights and from them we learned just when the Germans were to start their big attack. Latest claimant for top honors among "one-man" armies is Lieut. It took Coggins, an ice cream maker in peace times, 10 trips in trucks to get them all back. Taken prisoner himself while out on patrol, Coggins told the major commanding the German forces that his outfit's escape was sealed by the Allies. The Nazi commander allowed Coggins to return to his own lines to make arrangements for the mass surrender. Signal Corps Radiophoto.

Speedy Action To Halt Future Wars Is Plan

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—A "shoot first, talk afterward" policy against any nation which attacks another country in the future is beginning to emerge today as the basis of the security pact being drafted by the American, British and Russian delegates to the Dumbarton conference.

Immediate military action by one or more of the four big allied powers against any country which invades or attacks the territory of another state is the dominating thought in the current security talks.

Has Roosevelt Support

This policy had the public support today of President Roosevelt, who told his news conference that future wars must be nipped in the bud by stepping on their necks before they have a chance to grow.

The President said that if any nation violates the frontiers of another country the proposed international security council must be in a position to take instant action. He emphasized that it would be too late to prevent war if the security council first had a man send out word that there would be a meeting on the subject the following month.

The President's statement was in line with the American plan now

More Of Japan's Island Defenses Hit By Bombers

By RICHARD V. HALLER
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PEARL HARBOR, Aug. 30.—Further softening-up blows were in prospect today for island bases of Japan's inner defense perimeter following disclosure by Pacific fleet headquarters of heavy strikes against Iwo Jima in the Volcanos and Paramushiru in the Kuriles.

The Chencap communique gave out only the bare information that eleventh army air force Liberators bombed Paramushiru Saturday, starting several fires, but International News Service correspondent George McWilliams, writing from an advanced Aleutian base revealed that the attack was the heaviest aerial smash of the war against the Kuriles.

Carry Out Raids

Seventh army air force Liberators carried out two raids on Iwo Jima. An undisclosed number of the big four-motored craft bombed the airfield in a daylight raid August 27, following up an attack by a single Liberator during the night.

Other raids included bombing and strafing sorties by Liberators and fighter planes against Pagan Island in the Marianas Sunday. Targets were buildings and gun emplacements. Other unidentified American planes bombed Almaguin in the Marianas on the same day.

A lone Seventh AAF Liberator attacked Yap in the western Carolines Sunday, encountering only meager anti-aircraft fire.

Marine corps fighters and dive bombers continued their daily neutralization raids against well-passed enemy positions in the Marshalls.

Annual Reunion Is In Progress At Cascade Park This Afternoon

Descendants of Lawrence county's pioneer families are gathering at Cascade Park today for the 38th annual reunion of the Old-Timers association. They began assembling at one o'clock at the dance pavilion, where the program is scheduled for the balance of the afternoon.

Ideal weather is prevailing, which should bring out a large attendance, particularly of local folks, although many will be missing who have attended in past years, because of the war.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 30.—(INS)—The United States Third Army stabbed toward the Ardennes and the 30-mile distant Belgian border today after crossing the River Aisne, while Berlin announced evacuation of Rouen and reported an American thrust to the Chemin Des Dames.

The vital highway and row of hills south of Laon was the scene of one of the first World War's bloodiest and most decisive battles, when American forces took a terrific toll in German lives and paved the way for Kaiser Wilhelm's defeat.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 30.—Less than 35 miles from Belgium and only 90 miles from the frontier of Germany itself, troops of the American Third Army threw a new bridgehead across the vital Aisne river today and the Nazi high command announced evacuation of Rouen to British forces.

The bridgehead at the Aisne, where Imperial Germany made its futile last stand against the Allies in 1918, was established at Pont D'Arcy, with powerful forces of American tanks streaming unchecked north of Reims toward the Ardennes forest—gateway to Belgium, Luxembourg and the Reich.

Four German Cities Targets Of Huge Raids

By JOSEPH THOMAS

LONDON, Aug. 30.—An estimated force of more than 1,000 heavy British bombers battered military and industrial objectives in four German cities last night, kindling great fires in the heaviest night raid of recent weeks, the Air Ministry disclosed today.

Devastating new attacks against the enemy were under way today. A steady stream of Allied bombers which took 30 minutes to cross the southeast coast were believed en route to German flying bomb sites in northern France. More of the pilotless missiles rained down on southern England, including the London area, last night and early today.

But summer ages and soon will leave and autumn will take her place, autumn the girl with the colored clothes and an air of dignified grace, but I still like summer no matter her age and I hope she stays on some more, for I like her style and her weather too, today it is eighty-four.

German Forces Evacuate Rouen

Nazis Concede Troops Are Forced Out By Steady Allied Attacks

LONDON, Aug. 30.—(INS)—The German high command today announced the evacuation of the Seine river basin and communications hub of Rouen, 70 miles northwest of Paris and little more than half that distance in the rear of the Nazi rocket-bomb coast of France.

Admitting that American divisions assaulted the Nazi positions as often as seven times without letup, the Germans conceded that they were compelled to pull out of the historic city, known both for its ancient landmarks and its manufacturing facilities.

The German communiqué claimed that harbor installations on the Seine and other military facilities were blown up before the evacuation.

Rouen is 45 miles due west of Le Havre, the mouth of the Seine and the southern edge of the rocket-bomb coast from which the Nazis have been firing their V-1 bombs against southern England.

The German command also began to prepare the home front for news of the loss of Rouen by asserting that street fighting is underway in the southern reaches of that city, capture of which was announced yesterday by allied sources.

PATTON'S ARMORED COLUMNS SPREAD DISMAY TO NAZIS

was a second line of possible German defense. The 3rd Army has apparently collapsed all organized resistance in their part of France. Of course there may be instances of suicidal German defense efforts. However, the chances are that even Hitler now realizes his only possible move is to get all his troops out of France. But that is now probably impossible. His divisions will either be largely annihilated or trapped.

Due To Planning

The success of the American motorized and mechanized columns are due to the same long-range, careful planning and preparations over a matter of years which made possible our landing on the Normandy beachhead.

As soon as Rommel in northern Africa broke into full fledged tank warfare, Gen. Scott, another of our hard-driving cavalrymen, was sent to Africa for a long period of observation. There he saw our tanks in action with British crews. There he personally witnessed every phase of tank battle. Then Gen. Scott came home and his information was added to training schedules of what was by then great armored forces.

Prepared For Situation

Next, American armored units entered into actual fighting in the successful Allied invasion of northwestern and northern Africa. Every smallest detail of improvement was grasped. Artillery fire from rolling and pitching tanks was made as accurate as that of a destroyer at sea. Self-propelled motorized artillery was brought to a destruction capacity that amazed all observers. The British deserve much of the credit for Allied artillery effectiveness today.

Gen. Patton has spent his life from his earliest days at West Point preparing for this, the opportunity of his career. This was first trained for the vast encircling operations of horse cavalry. He was in charge of our first tanks in World War One. He is not only a cavalryman by training, but by spirit. Gen. Eisenhower knew Patton was the man to accomplish the speed victories of today.

HONORS SIX HEROES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(INS)—President Roosevelt today honored six of America's outstanding heroes of this war by presenting the congressional medal of honor, the nation's highest award for valor, to them and their families in special ceremonies at the White House.

The occasion was unusual in that it was the first time so many fighting heroes had received the award from the president's hands at the same time.

PRESENT AREA OF FIGHTING RECALLS 26 YEARS AGO

we beat them to the punch with every gun we could beg, borrow or steal.

Exactly on the dot they started firing, and from then until dawn, when they began to come over in waves, there was hell to pay. Thousands of boys died that day as the Germans fought with a fanatical fury unsurpassed by either the Japs today.

I remember one batch of 12 boys who had been sent up as replacements. They arrived at night and by noon the next day all 12 were dead.

Kept Coming

That's the kind of fight it was. Again and again the Germans crashed through and again and again they were hurled back and finally stopped dead in their tracks. They were washed up and they knew it. And so did we.

Col. Douglas MacArthur (that's right, the same bird who now is General MacArthur of the Pacific) was then our chief of staff. And it was while we were at Vadenay farm that he received his first star and was given one of the infantry brigades in the Rainbow.

After that battle we were piled on to those little box cars and shunted over to La Ferté Sous Jouarre, a name I saw again in a story only yesterday.

That was—and I suppose still is—a little railroad town with steep cobbled streets. I was easing up one of those streets with my blouse open, hands stuck in pants pockets and a cigarette dangling from my lips when a big car with four stars on it turned the corner.

Gen. Pershing Barks Order

A head stuck out from the back and a voice like the crack of a whip snapped: "Button that blouse!" It was General Pershing and I still recall how I set a new world record for speed in buttoning up. That was the only contact I've ever had with Pershing, but I'm not likely ever to forget it.

I knew we were to be there two or three days before moving again into line, so I conceived the brilliant idea of writing myself a pass to Paris and I unobtrusively signed it "Charles T. Meoche, Major General, Rainbow Division." Then I hopped a train for Paris—AWOL, of course—and the first person I ran into was one of those damned MPS. He might as well have been a man in a white coat, for he was signed by captain or major but he swallowed that one without question.

I had a great night there wining and dancing. Let me see, was her name Linette or Suzanne. No, I remember now. It was Babette, a chic, slender little red head. And what a dancer she was! I remember, but, oh hell, that was 26 years ago. Let's forget it.

Didn't Fool Colonel

I returned safely the next day and the late Col. Nobel B. Judah, who was later to be our ambassador to Cuba, wanted to know where the hell I was. "Why," I replied with hurt surprise, "Colonel, I spent all day yesterday looking for you." Many years later I met the Colonel in Chicago and he said "I know damned well you'd been to Paris."

We moved up into line on July 24 according to my little old notebook and if I recall correctly, we believed the Yankee Division. I can still see those dead boys lying along the bank of stream and some more through the fields.

We crossed the Ourcq which is what we'd call a small creek rather than a river. In fact, it was dry where I crossed. And it was just a little way beyond the river that a machine gun bullet hit Joyce Kilmer squarely between the eyes.

Joyce Kilmer, Times reporter who wrote that famous poem, Trees, from July 24 on as we apparently moved with about as much speed as the boys are moving over there today. The next names I find in my notebook are Trugny, Beauvaires, Baumonte, Chateaus (from August 28 to September 4), Toul, Ausville, Vauxen, Redcourt, Bois Montfaucon, Cheppy, Champigneulle, Autriche, Les Grandes Armoises, Maisonneille and Sedan.

Sedan! The night of the armistice. Mud and rain and cold. And General MacArthur pulling aside his brigade so that the French might have the honor of taking the town because it was there that the Germans forced the French to sign an ignominious peace in the Franco-Prussian war of 1870.

Those were the days. I see by the papers that the French gals are kissing the boys but if my memory and this little notebook aren't at fault, Paulette, Suzanne, and a score of others didn't treat us so badly either.

Remember?

and two coastal craft were destroyed or badly damaged in the vicinity of Boela, where other large fires were ignited.

Liberators and patrol planes hit Palau Sunday and Monday, starting four raging fires at Koror and causing other damage to Malakal, the Peleiu airstrip and the Arkansas seaplane base. The raiders encountered heavy anti-aircraft fire.

Five hundred and eight Japs were reported killed and 112 captured during mopping up operations on New Guinea from August 23 to August 28.

Three medium Jap bombers raided the ally's newly completed Midway Island airstrip, off the extreme western tip of Dutch New Guinea, causing minor damage.

The Japs made their raid under cover of darkness. Anti-aircraft fire downed one of the enemy planes and a second one was hit and probably crashed in the sea before it was able to reach home.

U. S. night patrol planes struck again at Davao in the southern Philippines, starting several fires.

The first settlers came to Nantucket in 1659, headed by Thomas Macy and settled at Madaket. The present site of the town of Nantucket was not chosen until 1673.

AMERICAN TANKS STREAM TOWARD ARDENNES FOREST

of violent fighting 26 years ago but which this time felt like a ripe plum into American hands—abandoned by a defeated German army now scurrying with all the speed at its command to the temporary haven of a home frontier.

The advance to within 35 miles or less of Belgium was scored in the area southeast of Laon, another historic battleground of past wars where the French suffered a crushing setback at the hands of Adolf Hitler's mechanized army in 1940.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters announced that only light German resistance is being encountered in the Laon sector.

Germany's high command communiqué dealt extensively with the abandonment of Rouen. The statement said:

"After strong enemy attacks repeated seven times and launched from the Seine bridgeheads north-west of Paris, German divisions which had held Rouen in grim fighting retreated to new positions to the northeast according to plan."

German Explanation

"The town of Rouen was given up after its port installations and other objectives of military importance had been destroyed."

Lying on a wide loop of the Seine east and slightly south of the great German-held channel port of Le Havre, Rouen is a city of enormous military importance.

It controls all the communication of the department of Seine-Inférieure, which embraces the ports of Le Havre, Fecamp and Dieppe, while a main road and railway line connect it with Abbeville. Key to the Pas de Calais—site of Hitler's robot bomb launching platforms.

British troops operating in this area and promising soon to duplicate the speedy advances of Leut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., and his American Third Army, have transformed this particular campaign into one of liberation of their own homeland from the robot horror. They have adopted as their motto: "One more kilometre and one less bomb."

Sweep Toward Calais

From Rouen the British are in position to sweep east and north to Amiens, Abbeville and eventually Calais, bottling up the German forces in the channel areas or forcing them into hasty retreat which in turn will mean abandonment of the rocket propulsion platforms which have been responsible for sending death and destruction into London and the English counties at a moment when the war seemed almost won.

Coinciding with the deep-plunging drive east of Soissons, our American forces made new crossings of the upper Marne valley where they surged to within 90 miles of the German border.

Yank columns striking from captured Soissons have reached Montfaucon, approximately ten miles driving northeast of Soissons, pushed to within 3,000 yards of Laon, an important road junction standing at the threshold of the Ardennes-Alsace Lorraine invasion gateways to Germany.

Near Tottier Reich

From here the Americans can wheel northward toward Belgium or southward toward Luxembourg and Adolf Hitler's tottering third Reich.

Mopping up operations are continuing in the area of Vitre-La-Francois, 100 miles from the German border and American troops have driven beyond Chalons-sur-Marne to Leptine, five miles to the northwest and Marson, seven miles to the southwest.

Other American troops are advancing through the area between the Marne and the Aisne north of Meaux and Chateau-Thierry.

Headquarters said that Allied forces were 3,000 yards from Laon and less than 40 miles from the Belgian border.

In the Paris area, advances have been made through the northwestern outskirts of the city beyond the Le Bourget airport and Montmorency.

Clear St. German Forest

Farther to the west, the forest of St. German has been completely cleared of the enemy and American columns have thrust their way northward to a point less than two miles north of Pontoise, 12 miles northwest of Paris.

The bridgehead across the Seine in the vicinity of Mantes-Gassicourt, 27 miles northwest of the capital, has been enlarged to the north and the east, beyond Meulan.

Other American units advancing from the Vernon bridgehead across the Paris-Rouen road have reached Terapigny and Longchamps have cut the Paris road near Ecouis.

Hard fighting continues against the isolated German garrison at the port of Brest, the communiqué said.

A headquarters spokesman said that units advancing between the Marne and the Aisne are meeting very little resistance, further proof that the Germans are more intent on running than on fighting.

Allied armored units are busy pushing ahead without even bothering to take prisoners, leaving that task to the infantry.

The advance against Laon, it was pointed out, puts the Americans only 50 miles from Sedan, where the German break-through in 1940 signaled the beginning of the end of the battle of France.

Peach Harvest Reaches Peak

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 30.—The peach harvest has reached its peak in the eastern panhandle, with prime fruit reaching selling prices for the first time this season, orchardists reported today.

Growers said the stock this year was of good quality, although not sized up as well as usual because of dry weather. Cool nights have kept the fruit on the trees longer, giving the orchardists more time to get them to markets.

The picking will be finished just in time to enable growers to turn to the first of the larger yields of apples. The apple crop is estimated to have been cut about 20 per cent since June, estimates due to the fruit falling.

Iron Lung Patient Has Appendix Taken Out In Washington

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 30.—(INS)—A 24-year-old iron lung patient, Mrs. Theda Anna Carl, was in fair condition at King County hospital today after having her appendix removed while she lay in the machine.

Mrs. Carl, who has been in the respirator since March 6, was given a general anesthetic with occasional inhalations of oxygen. The operation was performed after a section of the iron lung had been lifted.

She is the mother of two small children.

French Forces Take Important Towns

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(INS)—Radio France at Algiers today quoted headquarters of Gen. Joseph-Pierre Koenig, military commander of Paris, as announcing that French forces of the interior had taken Auxerre and Joigny, Yonne department towns on the Yonne river southeast of Paris.

The announcement, as broadcast by radio France and reported by the federal communications commission, said that more than 300 prisoners were taken by the FFI in their capture of Elbeuf, and added that resistance forces in Lyon "carry out new raids daily."

added that the situation in the southern part of the eastern front was now marked by mobile warfare with no clearly discernible front lines. Transocean quoted "well-informed German quarters" as saying that north of Ploesti "clashes occurred between German anti-aircraft batteries and Romanian tanks."

Constanta, the main base of Germany's Black Sea fleet, was cleared of Nazi land forces by one of the most spectacular land and sea operations of the Russo-German war.

Within Russian planes and warships subjecting the port to a terrific bombing and shelling, Soviet tanks and motorized infantry raced 65 miles down the highway from Tulcea, south of the Danube river, into Constanta by land while Soviet marines swarmed ashore from units of the Russian Black Sea fleet.

Follows Naval Base Seizure

Occupation of Constanta followed by 24 hours seizure of the naval base of Sulina at the mouth of the Danube and virtually sealed the doom of any German warships or merchant vessels that may still be in the waters of the Black Sea.

With Bulgaria reportedly out of the war as an ally of Germany, Nazi fleet units are bottled up in the Black Sea with no place to land.

Northwest of Bucharest Russian columns swept beyond Buzau to Balta-Popului in the drive toward the city of Ploesti, which lies some 35 miles north of the Romanian capital.

In two days units of Marshal Rodio Y. Malinovsky's Third Ukrainian army advanced 19 miles to cross the Buzau river and break into the town of Buzau, a rail junction and oil-producing center on the northeastern fringes of the Ploesti region.

Other Russian forces crossed the east-west stretch of the Danube between Ismail and alrid and seized a number of important localities, including Pecineaga, 29 miles west of Babadag.

the battle winning desert generals—told his men in a speech of order of the day: "We are now in the van of the Allied armies—British, American and French. We are about to start a deep drive into enemy occupied France north of the Seine."

"For the first time in this war we are fighting directly to free homes, our wives and our children from the German attacks. Every yard we advance reduces the area from which he can launch his secret weapons."

I wish the thousands of people who have lost their homes or their homes or just a room or even a routine life has been upset by the flying bombs could be here to bear witness to this impressive sight.

Hitler Can't Stop It

It is Nemesis on the hunt and nothing Hitler has can stop it. Convoys many miles long are swarming up. The drivers know their destination and wave as much as to say "It's in the bag."

And tanks—a solid estimate we have more than 30 for every German tank—can be counted in their squadrons.

It takes a minute for one to cross the Seine by bridge. That bridge has been creaking for hours now. The general told me last night: "I will flood that country with tanks," and he is certainly doing it.

The villagers and townspeople of Vernon, who a few days ago watched the Germans fall back frantically across the river and dump or ditch their fuel-stored vehicles to allow more human room on their choked barges and rafts, are today open mouthed and goggle eyed at the great British cavalcade.

The enemy is being pushed back so quickly that he has no time to lay mines or do the thorough demolition jobs which one associates with his retreats and withdrawals. A well known British general told me: "This operation is an extremely good achievement. I hope you will write it up. This is not an encircling movement—it is a penetration."

"Our tanks are going places now and are pressing forward very hard."

A brigadier told me:

"We are now splitting the Fifteenth German Army. The enemy is disorganized and we want to keep him on the run and not give him a chance to build up. He cannot possibly stop us."

being discussed at the security conference, along with the British and Russian plans. The American plan provides that the President of the United States would, in agreement with the decision of the security council, order American armed forces to move immediately against an aggressor nation without first asking Congress for a declaration of war.

The government's plan favors a new league of nations, large and small, to consider all problems of an international character, including not only security but labor, food and social welfare. However, the proposed new league would differ from the old Geneva one in that it would include a security council composed of the four big allied powers and a few small nations. In order to make the international organization an effective instrument for the prevention of wars, this small security council would be empowered to act instantly with force against an aggressor nation.

While the American government is prepared to commit this country to use its armed force in support of decisions of the security council, with which it agrees, it does not favor the Chinese proposal for creation of an international police force. Nor does it favor the Russian proposal for a separate international air force to act as policeman for the security council.

The American government prefers to have the allied powers retain their armed forces under their own jurisdiction, allotting them for use against an aggressor state when they agree on such action.

The conferees at Dumbarton Oaks are now striving to iron out the differences between their various plans and draft a compromise agreement that can be submitted to their respective governments as the basis for a postwar security organization.

licated ramps and platforms which have launched them on aimless missions of destruction.

German abandonment of Rouen indicated that unless the Germans actually do have a super de luxe flying bomb that can be launched from far away in Belgium or Germany itself, the robot menace soon will come to an end. Increasing desperation of the Nazis in this sector was clearly shown by the city's evacuation, for Rouen is of enormous importance.

Junction of three railway lines and a tidal basin of the Seine, Rouen controls virtually all communications of the department of Seine-Inférieure, which adjoins the Pas de Calais. The ports of Le Havre, Fecamp and Dieppe all are within striking distance of it, as are Amiens and Abbeville. The last-named town is the key to the whole Channel coast.

HENDERSON-CONN EVENING CEREMONY

At a candlelight ceremony performed Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at Highland U. P. church, Miss Carol Henderson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Earl F. Henderson of East Lincoln avenue, was married to William B. Conn, U. S. N. son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Conn of Detroit, Mich. The ceremony was performed by Dr. D. L. Ferguson before an altar banked with palms, ferns and arrangements of white gladioluses flanked by lighted candelabra.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory satin. Bowknots of seed pearls trimmed the fitted bodice. Sleeves of the gown were long and fitted and the full skirt was train-length. Her veil of tulle fell from a Juliet cap and she carried gardenias and Stephanotis.

The bride's attendants, her sister-in-law, Mrs. John F. Henderson, and bridesmaids Miss Dorothy Burton and Miss Maxine Conway, wore identical gowns of blue silk marquisette made with high neck and long sleeves. They were watching Juliet caps and carried chrysanthemums in tones of rose and gold.

Ensign John F. Henderson, U. S. N. R., served the groom as best man. Ushers were George Thompson of Butler, Craig Stockdale of Pittsburgh, cousins of the bride, J. Glenn Berry and Charles A. Gardner.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Julia Johns sang three of the bride's favorite selections. She was accompanied on the organ by Garth Edmundson, who also played the wedding processional and recessional and played softly during the ceremony.

A formal reception at the Henderson home followed when guests were received by the bride and groom. The bride's mother wore a gown of lace of a soft shade of rose and the groom's mother a gown of a deeper tone of rose lace.

Mr. and Mrs. Conn left later in the evening for a wedding trip to New York City.

The bride attended the University of Michigan and Grove City college. The groom attended the University of Michigan before enlisting in the naval air corps. He is at present stationed at Chicago.

Watch The Pacific, Too

The news from the European front is, of course, exciting and thrilling. Events have been happening of such great importance that almost equally important moves in the Pacific have been far overshadowed.

They are almost equally important because the success of the present Nimitz-MacArthur plans will bring about Japan's greatest catastrophe of the war. Those plans apparently call for the invasion and capture of the Philippines. And the battle is under way.

The softening-up process has begun—the pulverizing of Halmahera, which lies between northwestern New Guinea and the Philippines, and the battering of the southern Philippine bases. Halmahera is being bombed repeatedly by Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenney's air force and the attacks constitute an open announcement to the Japanese that the invasion may come at any moment.

Shipping off the southern Philippines waters is under constant attack. Also, Mindanao has been hit for the tenth time and large fires are burning in the island's main city of Davao. The Japanese know very well what is coming. What is going on in the Philippine area is one of the reasons for Premier Koiso's warning to his people that "the enemy is watching for an opportunity to land on our homeland."

The Philippines are the richest military prize in the South Pacific. They lie athwart the sea and air routes to the oil-rich Netherlands Indies. Their capture would slice off Japan's only major source of natural oil and would cut off very large Japanese military establishments in the East Indies.

There is hope, too, that General MacArthur's drive into the Philippines will be aided by the natives in much the same way that the French patriots have risen in the battle of France. There is reported to be an extremely active and well organized underground in the Philippines, ready at any moment to rise and strike at their Japanese oppressors.

World Free Press

The world free press question was recently taken up by John S. Knight, publisher of the Detroit Free Press, the Akron Beacon Journal and the Miami Herald.

He quoted an Algerian dispatch to the London Daily Express as follows: "The National Committee announces that a single French news agency will be set up with exclusive rights to distribute foreign news in France and to negotiate with foreign agencies for the exchange of news."

He then commented: "There you have in 34 words the reason why Kent Cooper of the Associated Press, Hugh Baillie of the United Press, and the American Society of Newspaper Editors are fighting for treaty guarantees that will insure the free flow of news in the postwar world."

Mr. Knight's target is the press of Europe as it was conducted prior to this war. In France it was a notoriously corrupt and poisoned press. In Germany, Italy, Russia and most other countries, it was the organ of the government. From what the French National Committee said, and the other countries are still doing, they have learned nothing about a reasonably free press.

But if this country is to be called upon to fight wars in Europe, or to use its power to prevent them, European countries should make some concession to American belief that the people of a country should have access to some reasonable degree of truth about their government.

This country can not force a free press on the peoples of Europe. But it can demand that American correspondents have access to official news sources, and the freedom to report the truth. If that is achieved, perhaps the people of Europe will create and support a people's press.

Churchill Submits

Those mythical war workers who are in the habit of running ten paces from their lathes toward the open door every time a fellow worker tells them of an announcement by an Allied leader forecasting victory over Germany sooner than was thought—those mythical war workers are raising the very dickens with Prime Minister Churchill's tendency to speak out loud and bold with exceptional clarity. And the world's literature is the loser.

It is well known by now that every time an Allied leader raises his voice in optimism over the accomplishments of Allied arms and the future prospects of the war there come forth from Washington great lamentations bewailing the exodus of thousands and thousands of Americans from vital war plants. Not long ago, Prime Minister Churchill said that the war might end "sooner than we have a right to expect."

If some federal officials are to be believed, this is all that a lot of highly volatile war workers needed in order to disappear from the assembly lines. It was not long before such officials began to berate Allied leaders for making speeches too full of optimism to permit full attendance at war plants.

Well, Prime Minister Churchill has learned his lesson, and even those who are disappointed when he descends to double-talk in expressing sanguine sentiments can see why he does it. A delayed dispatch from Italy says that when he addressed a brigade of Canadian tankmen, he said:

"I cannot predict an early end to the war, but I could not guarantee against it ending sooner than we have allowed ourselves to hope."

That should satisfy manpower officials. It proves once more that Sherman was right. War is hell, even for a prime minister who once in a while has a justifiably natural urge to give a little good news to his suffering people and to do it frankly and clearly.

It's those volatile war workers.

At the rate they are traveling, General Patton's motorized units should go through to Berlin without an oil change.

It may be Nazi leaders are holding out only for the reason it will be cooler to be hanged in October than in September.

Himmler, who raises chickens as a hobby, will discover that those about to come home to roost will greatly increase his present flock.

The Mexican who devised a new music system, dividing each tone into 16 parts, has given the saxophone players something to think about.

One of our nervous friends says he would like to have a robot bomb just powerful enough to fly through the open window and smash the radio next door.

National debt is now $1600 per person. Against this should be credited the $160 in cash which he is supposed to have in the pocket of his one-pants suit.

Hillman's Testimony On Activities Of P. A. C.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Appearing before the house campaign expenditures committee, Sidney Hillman looked as tanned and as well-tailored as a big business executive. He was flanked on one side by his attorney and on the other by the executive director of his political action committee.

As a matter of fact, he is big business. Since 1915, he has been head of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, which is a rich, cohesive union. He is chairman of the board of the Amalgamated Bank of New York, a director of the Amalgamated Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago.

But the business of the CIO political action committee and the national citizens political action committee turned out to be not quite so big as apparently appeared. The CIO political action committee contributed money to candidates in primaries in only eight states. With one possible exception, no contest with an arch CIO foe was involved in any of the primaries in which the national organization spent its money.

Sometimes, in fact, it appears they spent their money foolishly. In Massachusetts they gave Thomas H. Eliot $3,068 for his primary campaign, although it was fairly obvious to beat the incumbent, who was none other than that old Boston baritone, James Michael Curley. In Maine they put $1,000 on a CIO candidate who, as the election results proved, was a very long shot. A good bit of Hillman's testimony confirmed a belief I've had for some time, and that is that the PAC has been built up to bigger than life size. Partly this has been the fault of its promoters, and they are paying now for their zeal in setting headlines.

Much more nearly, however, the build-up comes from the opposition to Roosevelt. It's astute politics. If the PAC can be made to appear as a sinister, octopus-like organization trying to dictate the election, a great many independent, middle-class voters may be frightened off. Even some objective observers have, it seems to me, painted the picture of PAC in strokes too broad and too generous. It has, for example, been likened to the late Wayne B. Wheeler's anti-saloon league lobby.

Now PAC may work up to the state of perfection Wheeler achieved, but it has a long way to go. What the anti-saloon league had—and it was why prohibition stayed long after the sentiment of the people turned against it—were fanatical devoted followers willing to give their time to political organization; this plus the fact that they were distributed in areas where they could do the most good.

Important To Remember
What is important to remember, however, is that once majority sentiment has turned against prohibition, not all Wayne B. Wheeler's skill nor his far-flung organization could prevent repeal. The sentiment must be there before organization does any good.

In areas with large communities of workers, the PAC can do a job—a badly needed job of registration. Their successes to date have been where the predilection of the voters was already all their way.

That's the real story behind the build-up. The CIO has no new bag of tricks. William Green, speaking candidly has said that at least 80 per cent of the members of the A. F. of L. would vote for the fourth term.

And there's no profound mystery in that, either. The Republicans in the house have taken the lead in peering down the George bill, to cut still further the safeguards for unemployed workers in the transition period after the war.

That's easy to understand. People in general vote for their friends who promise them benefits. That is the way labor would vote this fall if no one had ever heard of the political action committee.

TRAGEDY AND A MORAL
All teachers looked upon as wise. In fact, that none should moralize or point an inference from an act. Sufficient to itself it fact. And clearly stated, 'is the law. All shall their own conclusions draw.

Yet, once a dismal tale I read Of two men in a cabin, dead; Brothers, past seventy years! The fact.

A sorry, suicidal pact. The elder—does the method shock—Bathed with the pendulum of a clock!

Done with the furious horrid blows. The younger from the floor arose And by a draught of poison died. Later when men an entry tried They found them: two who'd wished to die.

Vial and pendulum near by!

From this what grim conclusion draw? A thoughtful friend the story said And mused: "How foolish! Had they stayed, That pendulum had swung and swayed. Ticked off the seconds, as God willed. And just as surely both had killed."

"Observing some of the wartime civilian workers," said the man leaning against the bank, "I am moved to say, if the fellow who acts like he owns the place, expects ever really to own the place he might start now working like the man who does own the place."

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 7:39. Sun rises tomorrow 6:23.

An unpowdered nose is a sample of old-fashioned simplicity.

If a man has his nose broken in two places he should keep out of those places.

The man who does nothing usually does somebody.

The easiest way of doing nothing is to do it.

A lively member of the younger set was invited to spend several weeks at a certain country house run on somewhat Victorian lines. Fearing that, her pajamas might shock the elderly servants, she took the precaution of putting them away each morning before going to breakfast.

However, one morning she suddenly remembered after breakfast that she had failed to do this. So she rushed up to her bedroom but to her dismay the pajamas had disappeared.

"If you are looking for the pajamas, Miss," said the maid, "I've put them back in the young master's room."

Some men wake up and find themselves famous. Others stay up all night and become notorious.

A generation ago the girls never thought of doing the things they do now. That's why they didn't do them.

The present size of the dollar bill is slightly more than six inches long. At the equator the earth's circumference is about 15,000 miles. The present debt of the United States is 260 billion dollars. Therefore, if 260 billion dollar bills were placed end to end, it would form a belt that would stretch around the equator more than one thousand times.

"Nothing, ma'am," interrupted Johnny, "we'd move!"

It often happens when the man who pays the piper has nothing left for his other creditors.

At length, the Irishman observed: "You seem mighty proud of them mountains."

"You bet I am," replied the man from Denver. "And I ought to be, since my ancestors built them."

The Irishman thought this over for a few moments and then asked: "Did you ever happen to hear of the Dead Sea in one of the old countries?"

"Yes, indeed," replied the man from Denver. "I know all about the Dead Sea."

"Well, did you happen to know that the great-grandfather killed the thing?"

WHEN YOUR CHILD VISITS

FRIEND

"My daughter will soon spend a weekend at the home of a school chum. Just what should be done to show her appreciation to the girl's family? The mother of the chum has written to me and the little girl herself has written to my daughter."—Mom.

Answer: You, of course, must write to the girl's mother accepting the invitation and your daughter must write to her chum.

Have your daughter take along with her a small gift—possibly a box of candy or two or three pretty handkerchiefs as a hostess gift for the mother of her chum. This is not entirely necessary, of course, but is a thoughtful gesture.

When your daughter returns from her visit, she should write a "bread and butter" letter to her chum, as well as to the mother. You may, if you wish, write to the mother thanking her for the hospitality extended to your daughter, stating also that your daughter must soon visit you. And then sometime later, your daughter should write again to her chum and you to her mother inviting the little girl to spend a few days at your home.

Don't let all these letter suggestions alarm you. Just a few lines will suffice to show that you "know your book."

Question: When a woman, passing the table of another woman in a restaurant, stops to speak, should the one seated rise?

Answer: She should remain seated, unless she is very young and the visitor elderly. If there are men at the table, they, of course, should rise and remain standing until the visitor, whether young or old, leaves or sits down.

The Parent Problem

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

HOW TO CURE FALSEHOOD HABIT

Thousands of conscientious mothers could match the following:

"Dear Dr. Myers:—We have two boys, one seven, the other three. Within the last six months the elder has developed the habit of telling falsehoods. For this we have spanked him, shamed him, made him sit in a chair for an hour, and taken many privileges away, but to no avail.

"Even though I told him if he tells me the truth he wouldn't get punished, he would much rather take the consequences than give in. But later on I may approach him again and he will then tell me the truth, saying he didn't know why he lied to me at first.

"But just this past week I questioned him about bringing home a small article from his grandmother's which didn't belong to him, and he told me immediately where he got it. Of course, I immediately caught hold of him to give him a sound spanking, when he burst out in tears, saying, 'But, Mother, you said if I told you the truth you wouldn't spank me.' Well, Dr. Myers, I was at a complete loss to know what to do. So I took him on my knee and tried to explain to him the wrong he was doing in taking even such a small thing as a marble from another child. Then the next day there was another scene and he immediately told me the truth.

"Wrong Method Used

"Well, I thought I had conquered until just today, when my younger child told me this older boy had been striking matches. I asked him and he said, 'Cross my heart, Mother, I didn't.' So I believed him until two other boys of the neighborhood came in and told me that my boy was trying to start a grass fire. I brought him in and questioned him and he denied it entirely. Finally, after he realized he could not put it over on me he ran on his own accord to the fire house and reported it after he realized he couldn't put it out himself. Then I spanked him good and threatened to put him in jail. A self-addressed stamped envelope is enclosed.

I answered the mother about like this: The punishment might have worked if it had been consistent and also had immediately followed the deed which caused your concern. But he was punished only for being caught through his own forced confession. Naturally he supposed each time he could do a better job at lying than he had done before. Please, therefore, limit punishment to wrong deeds you have seen him do. Quit putting him on the witness stand to make him incriminate himself. Advise your child on punishment as a corrective for lying. Love and understanding will do so much better. I am sure you will never again threaten him with jail.

Boy Needs Affection
You need to supervise that lad more so as to protect him against temptations he is too weak to withstand. Make him feel more secure in the family group. The problem was easier if he didn't have a little brother who is so "good" and who tattles on him. Please study my enclosed bulletin on "Jealousy" and the one on "Honesty and Truthfulness," each to be had for a stamped self-addressed envelope sent to me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City.

Your main problem is to re-establish in that child better relationships so he will feel you understand him, so he will want to do right. In this the father and grandmother need to help. All of you try to have good times with him and to attract his playmates to come to your home for fun with him. Then the younger brother will learn to mind his own business. Did I should go places with this lad, make things with him and have many good times with him.

Capital caterers are in a frenzy trying to supply enough food, mounds and butlers for the over-eager hostesses of the town.

"Things are terrible," Charles Ridgwell, the dean of the catering corps, said recently. "These week-ends almost break our backs. We have not enough men to go around. And it is not as though the parties were small. They are bigger than they ever were."

The only truly permanent Washingtonians in this kaleidoscopic town are the butlers, the dainty ending butlers who go from house to house, minister with ears that hear nothing, lips that speak nothing and eyes that see nothing, to the "best people."

A national magazine approached one of these reliable fellows the other day and offered a large sum for some "inside dope" of the going on round about.

"Sorry," said the butler. "But I really could not tell anything. It would ruin the business for all of us, sir. Besides, sir—there is really nothing to tell."

Dumbarton Oaks is the perfect setting for the current post-war conference. The former home of former Ambassador Robert Woods Bliss, with its high-ceilinged elegance, its wandering garden paths and superb library is, however, so agreeable a spot that the conferees, State Undersecretary Stettinius, Soviet Ambassador Gromyko and British Ambassador Alexander Cadogan may be lulled into the comfortable belief that the world is already a charming place. And why worry about post-war complications when present day life is so luxurious and so easy?

Historians say that the Declaration of Independence would not have been signed if the Founding Fathers had been gathered in a more agreeable environment than the floor above a large and violent livery stable. Hungry, horse flies tempted by the patriotic legs protruding so frankly from the short colonial breeches, drove the signers into a sudden revolt against the Mother Country.

I've a feeling if the promoters of the post-war conference really want to get something done at this meeting, they'd better introduce some horse flies, or at least a few fleas into the symmetrical beauty of the Washington Oaks. Or how about a few biting insects, or big, black, biting ants that used to go to pre-war parties?

America Has Greatest Naval Power On Earth

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal reported today that since the outbreak of war in Europe five years ago the United States has built at least 65,000 vessels of all types to give America "the greatest naval power on earth."

Forrestal, at his weekly news conference, also disclosed that the United States fleet has been trebled in size to give this nation approximately 1,100 battleships, aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers, escort vessels and submarines.

The report on naval progress came as high ranking officers marked the first anniversary of America's Pacific offensive and the 31st birthday of naval aviation by promising mighty new blows against the Japs and "early extermination" of the far eastern enemy.

Present at the conference was Rear Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, deputy chief of staff to Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Pacific fleet chief.

Sherman under questioning said that the collapse of Germany would give the United States more force in the Pacific and that "if we maintain pressure and utilize that force we will get the job done quicker."

Fifth Anniversary

"Day after tomorrow—September 1, 1944—is the fifth anniversary of the outbreak of war in Europe," Forrestal told newsmen. "In order to meet its obligation in the past five years of armed neutrality and war the navy has increased the size of its fleet and air arm until the United States has become for the first time in its history, the greatest naval power on earth."

During this period, Forrestal added, the navy increased the number of its war ships over three times, built a huge new fleet of supporting vessels, much more than trebled the fleet's fire power and multiplied its air force 20 times.

"Since the beginning of hostilities in Europe, the navy added almost 65,000 vessels of all types have been added to the fleet, or a total of over nine million displacement tons," Forrestal stated.

The tonnage includes at least 36 per cent combatant ships, 29 per cent auxiliaries and the remainder landing and miscellaneous craft.

"During the same period the navy accepted a total of 7,600 planes," Forrestal said. "Monthly production of navy airplanes five years ago averaged only 12 per month as contrasted with recent acceptances of 78 per day."

The secretary added that the navy aircraft production job is "far from complete," and that in the next 12 months it expects delivery of over 30,000 planes.

Forrestal said that the strength of the navy, marine corps and coast guard has grown in the past five years from 152,086 officers and enlisted personnel to 3,717,000 today.

Playground Program Called Off Tuesday

Concluding Games In Softball Tournaments Still To Be Played Off, Director Says

Damp weather and a chilly breeze halted plans for the field day closing the summer playground program Tuesday, according to playground director, Arthur Alexander.

All activities on the day's schedule were cancelled except the concluding games in the softball tournaments. These games will be played off Thursday morning and Friday afternoon, at Booker T. Washington field and Gaston park.

Beginning at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, the West Side playground team will battle the boys from Mahoning playground for the Junior League championship of the city. Friday's games, which begin at 1 o'clock, will be for the Senior championship, with Big Run playground competing with Dean Park. Mr. Alexander said.

Playground activities are now over for the summer, after a season of caring for about 4,000 children a week at the different fields. Many special projects were carried out, including pageants, exhibits and wiener roasts. Handicraft work done by the children will soon be on display at the Public Library.

Reconversion Bill Nearing End Of Debate

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Advocates of federal jobless insurance during the transition from war to peace battled today to win support as the House prepared to end general debate on the George reversion bill and consider amendments.

As member after member of both parties rose to support the Senate measure, which has been extensively rewritten by the House Ways and Means committee, supporters of more liberal legislation privately conceded defeat but expressed hope that one or two changes might be approved.

Two Amendments

They indicated that they would center their efforts on two amendments, one providing for a national standard of federal benefits not exceeding $20 a week for jobless workers and dependents and another extending benefits to three and a half million federal employees.

The amendment for a $20 top on benefits will be offered by Rep. Dingell (D) Mich., either tomorrow, when the bill will probably be thrown open to possible revision from the floor, or Friday, when leaders hope to get a final vote on the measure.

Rep. Celler (D) N. Y., was also expected to support a motion to substitute the Dingell bill for the George measure, a move which was not expected to win much support. The Dingell bill, which the Michigan representative introduced at the request of labor groups, provides for a $25 weekly maximum for civilians and increases "G.I." postwar benefits from $20 to $35.

$20 Weekly Recommendation
Dingell said his recommendation for a $20 weekly national maximum would conform with the recommendations of War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes before the House Ways and Means committee, which reported out the George bill after deleting approximately half the Senate measure.

"I consider the George bill emasculated to a point where it is bruised beyond recognition," Dingell told the House.

"The New Deal party has no place in America," reported Rep. Curtis (R) Neb. "They think in terms of unemployment rather than jobs. They are defeatists. They think America is through."

Leaders of both parties predicted the George bill would be approved Friday, substantially in the form in which it was amended by the Ways and Means committee. It will then go to a joint conference committee, probably after Labor day week-end recess, to reconcile House-Senate differences.

As revised, the George bill contains three major provisions: (1) Continues the Office of War Mobilization for one year or less after the war, (2) Establishes a federal fund from which states can borrow to maintain their unemployment compensation systems and (3) Authorizes the Federal Works Administration to make loans to states, counties and municipalities to stimulate postwar public works planning.

"Let's see, now," he said. "I had 10 children by my first wife, Helen. She died in 1926 and I married Evalina. She had eight before she died in 1937. Now I'm married to Estelle, and so far we have six children."

Going To Jail Fun When USO Uses 'Jug' For Center

SAN MARCOS, Texas, Aug. 30.—(INS)—Even being in jail can be fun provided the jail in question happens to be the local USO center.

When a detachment of 200 Negro soldiers arrived in San Marcos the USO thought to provide them with a recreation center but none could be found until the community leaders offered to donate the jail.

Down came the bars and decorations did a job with chairs, lamps and tables. They even had a special dedication ceremony attended by the mayor and the commanding officers of the base.

As flowers planted by the ladies of the vicinity bloom gaily about the converted jail and the men spend happy hours within, the townspeople are thoroughly convinced that it's better to have a place to keep good men happy than to harbor men who get into trouble.

Declares Strikes In Coal Districts Will Continue

Mine Leader Asserts Operators Must Recognize Demands Being Made

(International News Service)

"The strikes will continue and the strike votes will continue" until the operators recognize the right of supervisory workers to unionize.

That was the solemn warning issued today by John McAlpine, president of the United Mine Workers district 50 supervisory employees union in the face of repeated attempts by the war labor board to have the men return to their posts.

Eight large bituminous pits in the western section of the state have been closed by the drive, leaving 4,500 essential workers idle and costing the war and home fronts an estimated 30,000 tons of coal daily.

McAlpine, who appeared before the WLB in Washington Monday, told that group that the strikes were legal under the Smith-Connally act and that he would not call them off. Yesterday the WLB sent telegrams to six local mine presidents, but apparently without results.

"The whole thing's up to Washington," McAlpine said. "The federal labor agencies are fighting among themselves. We have to have someone to tell the operators to recognize our constitutional rights."

The WLB pointed out in its telegrams to the six local presidents that "the strike is interfering with the production of coal which is necessary to the war effort. The needs of our armed forces in Europe and the Far East demand that the national welfare come before the grievances of a few."

Today votes were scheduled in five Cambria county operations as to whether the men would join the spreading walkouts. The mines were one each at the Monroe Mining company, the Imperial Mining company and the Heisley Coal company and two at the Springfield Coal corporation.

Robert Condra, secretary-treasurer of the union and who accompanied McAlpine on his trip to Washington, reported:

"The WLB placed responsibility for the whole thing on the NLRB. Everything remains the same as it was. We will continue with the strike votes that are pending."

At least 70 mines in western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Alabama and Kentucky are scheduled to hold strike votes within the next three weeks.

Both the Rochester & Pittsburgh Coal company and the Ford collieries company have refused to recognize the bargaining rights of the supervisory employees.

Six R&P mines were down. They were the Sagamore, Ernest, McIntyre, Lucerne, Waterman and Yatesboro. The two Ford mines down were the Francis and Berry pits.

Release Jockey In Camden Shooting

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 30.—(INS)—Joseph Rienz, a jockey, was released today following questioning in connection with the shooting of Robert F. Curran, 44, a trainer of horses now running at Garden State Park.

Curran, police said, fired Rienz three weeks ago for giving Penny Pincher "a poor ride" in a race in which the horse was a favorite.

The questioning of Rienz didn't bring out anything that we didn't know before," said captain of detectives Gus Koerner. He added that he expected to get some "interesting facts" on betting coups at Garden State Park from other racing figures who are to be questioned.

Meanwhile, Curran's condition was reported as too serious for

Traffic Deaths Somewhat Higher

Survey Shows Traffic Deaths First Seven Months Above That For 1943

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—(INS)—Traffic deaths in the United States in the first seven months this year were eight per cent higher than in the same period of 1943, the national safety council reported today.

The death total for the nation through July was placed at 12,620, compared with 11,680 for the same period last year.

The 1944 figures, however, were 38 percent below the toll of 20,317 reported for the first seven months of 1941.

On the safety side of the picture, an outstanding feature was the achievement of Cleveland and Detroit in going 40 and 34 days respectively without a traffic death. Because of Detroit's greater population, its mark was the better as it set a new American record of 39,500,000 deathless man-days.

Helium gas was first observed on the sun.

Some Politicking On Schedule Of F. D. R. After All

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—President Roosevelt is going to do a little politicking this fall, after all. The president let this be known himself in announcing that he will make an address to a Washington meeting of the American Federation of Labor Teamsters' Union September 23.

Mr. Roosevelt said he won't do much politicking—there's just a faint tinge of it in his speech—but as long as there is going to be some politics, he was making the announcement himself before somebody else raised a hue and cry about it.

First Political Speech

The president said it would be his first political speech of his fourth term campaign. He said he would not make a national campaign-speaking tour this year. He added that he had decided what he would say in his radio address to the Teamsters' dinner, but he would keep the subject to himself until he delivered it.

Otherwise, Mr. Roosevelt gave no further information on what campaigning he will do for a fourth term.

But, in other ways, the pattern of the Democratic campaign this fall was beginning to emerge today. Vice-president Henry A. Wallace paid his first visit to the White House since before the Democratic convention, and held a two-hour luncheon conference with the president.

Wallace To Tour

Afterward, Wallace, who was given the president's blessings as his running mate again this year but who was turned down by the convention, told correspondents he will tour the nation making speeches for President Roosevelt's reelection.

Mr. Roosevelt had two other callers of political note yesterday. One was Gov. Ellis Arnall, of Georgia, a fairly frequent caller at the White House; the other was former Governor Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, an avowed Republican, who said he will give his complete support to Mr. Roosevelt's reelection.

Aside from his forthcoming speech to the Teamsters' meeting, it is unlikely that Mr. Roosevelt will make more than two or three other purely political speeches.

Within a month, however, the president is expected to hold another international war conference with Prime Minister Churchill, of Britain, possibly in Canada.

It is possible the president will make a report to the nation on the results of this conference as he did at Bremerton following the conclusion of his Pacific war inspection tour.

Australia Ready To Start Demobilizing

CANBERRA, Aug. 30.—(INS)—Australia will release 45,000 officers and men from its armed services in the near future to boost the output of plants engaged in essential war work, Prime Minister John Curtin informed the house of representatives today.

Of this total, 30,000 will be taken from the army and 15,000 from the air force, with some 20,000 being granted discharges by the end of December.

Curtin said the step was taken after conferences with Allied leaders in Washington and London and he warned that the defeat of Hitler "will not lessen the demands on Australia."

Another German General Taken

Captured With 400 Other Prisoners Near Lyon; Seventh General Taken In Southern France

By LARRY NEWMAN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

GRENOBLE, France, Aug. 30.—Another German general was captured Tuesday along with 400 other prisoners somewhere south of Lyon.

He was the seventh German general to be captured thus far in southern France.

I saw the general riding in a jeep en route to army headquarters. He was arrogant, a typical Nazi, dressed in a gaudy red grey uniform. He even refused to give correspondents his name, saying: "I don't have to tell you my name."

Germans in the pocket around Montlamar are giving up in droves. One Allied division took 800 prisoners in less than 12 hours. A total of 40 Nazi vehicles, most of them laden with equipment, supplies and ammunition, were captured intact. Also 30 working artillery pieces were taken along with plenty of ammunition.

When the general was captured he was alone with his badly wounded aide who was immediately taken to an American hospital.

The general complained bitterly because an American general of his rank did not come to accept his surrender.

Another big bag of German prisoners is expected in the same pocket where the general was seized.

The Nazis have made a couple of counter-attacks, attempting a breakout, but to no avail. Their losses have been extremely heavy, including many tanks.

German occupation forces have requisitioned 64 million dollars worth of textiles in Holland, and as a result it is doubtful whether any textiles will be left for use of the population.

Seventeen-Year-Old Solos At Air Field

Returning to the New Castle airport with all of their old enthusiasm, local youngsters are again taking up flying now that war time restrictions have been lifted. Findley Wilson, flight instructor, announced today.

Evidence of the interest is the number who have soloed already, with the solo flight of seventeen-year old Larry DeBlasio of West Pittsburg, especially remarkable because of the youth of the flier.

The first girl to solo since the restrictions were lifted was Melvina Tubbs, of Round street. Others to solo are Harold Paulson, Lloyd Stoulin, Sam Fry, John McCague, and Jim Rees.

Thirty Remedial Benches Will Be Provided Deshon

One of the immediate needs at the Deshon General Hospital Annex in Cunningham Park is thirty remedial benches. If you are not familiar with the term, a remedial bench is a small wooden bench 20 inches long, 11 1/2 inches wide and fourteen inches high, put together in such fashion that they will stand a lot of hard usage. They are used in the physio-therapy treatment of wounded men.

The need existed but a few minutes until it was filled. Nick Cange, general chairman of the committee of St. Margaret's Society which is putting on a spaghetti dinner for the benefit of the annex on September 28th announced on Tuesday night that the society would underwrite the benches, the money for them to come from the dinner. The cost of the benches will be approximately $165.

Plans for the dinner are complete and the indications are that a huge crowd will attend. Already there are some 400 tickets sold and the demand for them is increasing. With Mr. Cange in charge of the dinner preparations are Bart Lombardo, president of the society, Mac Dominick, co-chairman, Paty Monico, secretary, James Zarilla, treasurer, and a number of hard working committees.

Orders for the manufacture of the thirty remedial benches have been issued and in a week or so they will be delivered. It was only in the fourth century or near the end of the third that the birth of Jesus came to be celebrated on December 25, the day of Winter Solstice at that time, previously given over to the celebration of the rebirth of the son.

Thirty-Eight Pass Tests For Drivers

Number Of Applicants Tuesday Is Largest In Several Months, State Police Report

Seventy-three applicants, thirty-eight of whom passed the test, made Tuesday one of the busiest days in several months for the state police who conduct the driving tests on Sampson street.

This number of slightly nervous beginners is still far below the number who used to turn out in pre-war days, the police examiners said. Those who do come are mostly youngsters, who have just become eligible to drive, and who haven't yet developed the what's-the-use-where-could-I-go attitude of most of the adults.

Those who passed the test are: Mack Brown, 919 Moravia street. Joe Mitchell, 919 Moravia street. Don E. Raub, Edenburg. C. C. Ryan, Slippery Rock. J. H. Thornburg, R. D. 6. Walter M. Miller, R. D. 5. ## Blackout Drill May Be Delayed

Office Of Civilian Defense Expects Changes In Set-Up During September

Scheduled for "sometime before September 1," the expected blackout drill may not come until several days after the first, according to local OCD Director Francis T. Sargent.

All OCD personnel are asked to have their credentials with them, and to be prepared for the drill whenever it may come, the director added.

Orders have come through from the State Council of Defense regarding a mobilization of all OCD personnel for September. As some changes are expected, a suitable notice of the work set-up will be mailed to all group leaders in a few days. Certificates of award made out to members of different groups of the OCD are now on hand in the city office, Mr. Sargent stated. Those receiving them may call for them there.

The cod is one of the most prolific of fish, a female 39 or 40 inches long producing 3,000,000 eggs.

WILL YOU DROP ME A NOTE?

I know you're busy with wartime duties.

I know you have more important notes to write -- on V-mail stationery.

But I also know that you are the most important person to the motion picture industry. All of us at Warner Bros. know it.

Because it is your judgment -- of such pictures as "Sergeant York" and "Yankee Doodle Dandy" and "This Is The Army", to name a few -- that has made "Warner Bros." stand for the best in entertainment.

And tomorrow, you may see a Warner picture that I sincerely believe is one of the finest we've made in thirty years.

It's called JANIE.

JANIE is one of those pictures that is simply crammed full of heart-warming happiness and laughter. I'm sure you'll walk out of the theater chuckling -- and you'll chuckle every time you think of JANIE, for a long long time to come.

Because we made JANIE for you -- because we're so sure you'll agree with our judgment -- I wish you'd let me hear from you.

I think you'll want more Warner pictures like JANIE.

Sincerely,

British Troops In Italy Shove Steadily North

British Eighth Army Fighting Way Steadily Toward Nazis' Gothic Line

ROME, Aug. 30.—(INS)—British Eighth Army forces in the Adriatic sector of the Italian front relentlessly punched their way forward today toward the Nazis' Gothic Line. All high ground south of the river Foglia has been secured, following bloody fighting, and patrols have reached the river at many points. Allied headquarters announced.

British troops pushed five miles beyond the Gothic line north of the liberated Florence, forcing a further Nazi withdrawal in this sector.

In the upper Arno valley Allied troops slashed ahead for three miles to seize the town of Bibbiena—from which a road leads directly up to the Gothic Line five miles beyond.

An official announcement stated that "various parties" of enemy troops attempting to escape by boat from the Riviera coast had been captured.

British destroyers, supporting the Eighth Army drive in the Adriatic, shelled the Pesaro area.

The Germans still are shelling Allied-held Florence.

HITLER'S POWER IN BALKANS IS WANING FAST

garia has already accepted allied peace terms and formal signing of an armistice will take place shortly. Russia, however, served notice on Bulgaria that she must surrender to the United States and Great Britain rather than to the Soviet Union. Bulgaria is at war with the western allies, but not with Russia.

Expect Bulgarian Delegation. Reuter's reported from Cairo that a Bulgarian delegation was expected to arrive in Egypt today. The Bulgarian radio asserted that Bulgarian troops were evacuating occupied territories, presumably Greece and Yugoslavia. The radio also declared that Bulgaria was prepared to disarm German troops stationed in Bulgaria.

What was described as a "Hungarian 'Mannerheim' cabinet" has succeeded the government of Premier Doemio Stojay and is headed by General Vitez Geza Lakatos, commander of Hungarian forces on the Russian front.

No reason was given by the Hungarian government for the dismissal of Stojay's whole cabinet, the new cabinet is not expected to bring Hungary any closer to the allies.

Nazi Power Crumbles. Although former Hungarian Prime Minister Michael Karolyi declared the re-shuffle "indicated that German power in Hungary is beginning to crumble," a Swiss dispatch to the Swedish newspaper Afton-Bladet said that "Romanian events have rendered Karolyi still more dependent on Berlin."

The province of Transylvania, which the Nazis forced Romania to cede to Hungary, is jeopardized by an allied victory, it was pointed out. Occupation of the Nazi-created state of Slovakia by German forces was regarded in London as evidence of the desperate situation in which the Nazis find themselves, brought about partly by increased patriot activity and larger use of parachute guerrilla forces by the red army.

Altoona To Seek Excess War Goods

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 30.—That Altoona city officials mean to take advantage of whatever opportunities may be afforded for the purchase of materials and equipment through the government sale of surplus war materials was indicated today when Mayor H. A. Brumbaugh laid before council preliminary plans that have been formed by the United States Conference of Mayors, with which he is affiliated.

Altoona already is in possession of approximately $200,000 worth of property loaned by the Office of Civilian Defense. It includes pumps, hose, ladders, helmets, gas masks and a variety of other material used by firemen; cots, stretchers, kits and other materials for use by hospitals and the medical corps, and a host of other material.

Officials hope that the war will be opened for the retention of this material, while they intended to keep their eye peeled for opportunities to get motor equipment, tools and machinery that could be used by the highway and water departments through the discounts congress has provided.

Postwar Plans Made By Council

Considering both postwar needs and the citizen's purse, City Council is planning a $621,000 postwar program which will call for no immediate increase in taxes, Director of Finance Albert A. Hoyland said today.

Working on the program are both the council and the Greater New Castle Association. Although definite plans will depend on conditions in local industry at the end of the war, the work will probably consist of a series of public works projects, Mr. Hoyland explained.

Beginning next year and continuing through subsequent years, Council will issue bonds as, and if, postwar conditions require. With $388,000 as the limit, the bonds will be retired in 20 years. The balance of $233,000 will be taken care of by the general revenue, according to Council's plans.

EMPLOYMENT DECLINES

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 30.—(INS)—Total employment in Ohio declined one per cent while payrolls increased less than one per cent from April to May, according to a report based on experience of 8,600 concerns and compiled by Ohio State University's Bureau of Business Research and the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Reports for the eight chief cities on manufacturing employment—Akron, Canton, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Toledo and Youngstown—showed the general trend of employment declines for the month in all major types of manufacturing.

Compared with the same month a year ago, employment this May was down four per cent while payrolls were up two per cent.

"EAT MORE FISH"

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 30.—(INS)—L. S. Chichey, of the Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior, said today that the success which greets Pittsburgh's "eat more fish" campaign set for Sept. 1 to Oct. 7 may serve as a measuring stick for other fish-glutted markets in the United States.

It was pointed out that both military and civilian needs next winter will be very great, and that if more fish are to be produced it is essential that present surpluses must be moved.

Landon Urges War Powers Be Removed At Earliest Moment

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 30.—(INS)—Landon, 1936 Republican presidential nominee, urged abolition of governmental war emergency powers "at the earliest possible moment" and the election of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey as president.

"The temptation is great, whatever party is in power, to continue those vast powers," he told Kansas young Republican leaders. "It is always easy—too easy from the best motives—to forget authorized procedure for a short cut to immediate problems."

Landon advocated the election of Dewey "to restore before it is too late our 150 year old rule of passing the executive office around."

He said the issue of the election is not only the continuation of the same party in power but of the same chief executive, who seeks another term—a total of 16 years as president.

"Laying aside all questions as to the job he has done, I submit to the intelligent and calm thinking Americans that it will only be natural for any man, confronted with the great problems of domestic and world reconstruction, to desire to hold on to the established controls of the lives of all Americans," he said.

Sees Hillman In Choice Berth Of White House Staff

State Chairman Taylor Presents
Forecast Of Situation If Roosevelt Wins Again

HARRISBURG, Aug. 30.—(INS)—Republican State Chairman M. Harvey Taylor painted a picture today of Sidney Hillman occupying a choice berth on President Roosevelt's White House staff if the New Deal captures the nation's voters in 1944 with the aid of the CIO's political action committee.

Taylor accused Hillman, PAC chieftain, of attempting to gain control of the Democratic party and said the union's vote-gathering agency was "as non-partisan as a professional bodyguard."

"If Hillman is really sincere in his desire to remove the Communist stain from his political action group," Taylor stated, "his resignation as chairman would be an admirable step in that direction. He could also renounce his Communist associates, but we needn't count on that."

"They say they have no purge list in the coming election," Taylor declared. "The record shows they've always been around with a financial blackbag when there is a Republican skull to crack."

Hillman also tells us he wants no credit if Roosevelt is elected," he said. "He won't need it, a $6,000,000 slush fund establishes a high credit rating in any league."

"If Roosevelt wins and Hillman becomes America's labor dictator all the other union leaders will have to come to Sidney with a tin cup."

Taylor predicted union leaders would have little trouble finding Hillman if Mr. Roosevelt was re-elected for a fourth term.

"He'll have moved into Harry Hopkins' place in the White House, a glorified sanctum provided for him by the president at the taxpayer's expense."

Education Congress To Meet In October

Postwar Problems To Be Discussed
In Gathering At State Capital
October 4-5

HARRISBURG, Aug. 30.—(INS)—Secretary of Public Instruction Francis B. Haas announced today that problems relating to returned veterans, school finances and postwar educational adjustment will be discussed at the annual education congress at Harrisburg October 4 and 5.

Reports by the postwar education committee and state education council study groups on educational needs, administrative procedure and policies will highlight the opening sessions, Haas said.

Panel discussions of financial and administrative problems of the school system and discussion of educational implications of recent legislation for veterans and civilians will also be held.

Col. John Andrews, of Washington, D. C., selective service official, and Franklin Zeran of the U. S. office of education, were slated to outline co-ordination of community facilities to serve veterans and unemployed civilians.

Other speakers included: F. A. Pitkin, state planning board director; and H. J. Crosson, Philadelphia, and Kenneth S. Covey, Pittsburgh, both of the veterans administration.

NAZI CARRIER AWAITS JUNKMAN

FORMIDABLE AND DEADLY a few hours earlier, this German half-track gun carrier, armed with a multiple-barrel rocket launcher, was left by advancing Yanks as just so much scrap metal on a road in France. A late member of its crew lies dead (foreground) as Floyd L. Meyer, American doughboy from Potter Valley, Calif., surveys the scene. This is a U. S. Signal Corps Radiophoto. ## Lawrence County Farm And Home News

By Extension Representatives, LEWIS C. DAYTON, Agriculture;
MISS JOSEPHINE SIMPSON, Home Economics

GARDENERS URGED TO DESTROY CORN STALKS

Prompt removal of all sweet corn stalks from garden plots is necessary to prevent additional loss from the corn borers.

In several areas in Lawrence county the corn borers have increased to an alarming extent, and in some sections is found in sweet corn stalks in garden plots. Unless these stalks are destroyed or further utilized, the borers will continue to crawl to new plants and cause additional damage.

Borers left in stalks of corn and other plants through the winter will emerge in the spring to cause additional damage. Sweet corn silage, or can be used as cattle feed, as silage, or can be buried at least six inches below the ground. Where none of these methods are practical, the stalks can be burned.

PIGS NEED ATTENTION AT TIME OF Farrowing

The fall crop of pigs is about to be farrowed, and it is at this time that swine require extra attention. Because of high-priced feed during the past two years, many farmers have been discouraged so far as pork production is concerned, making a tendency to neglect their animals. The farmer with bred sows should keep in mind that it requires approximately 1,000 pounds of grain to carry the brood sow during the gestation and nursing period.

The cost per pig at weaning time is determined by the number of pigs born per litter. With this in mind it is obvious that sows and pigs need careful attention at farrowing time, in order to raise as many as possible to reduce the cost per pig.

Owners should remember that the expense has already been incurred and that the only way to offset the expense is to raise a large number of pigs. The last three to four weeks during the gestation period is quite important. Sows should have full feed, the opportunity for plenty of exercise, and be in good physical condition. Clean, sanitary quarters should be provided, and attendants should be on hand at farrowing time. Additional information on how to handle the sow and litter can be obtained at the Agricultural Extension Office, 206 Post Office Building, New Castle.

NEWER VARIETIES OF WHEAT SHOW MERIT

Wheat yields depend in part on the variety which has been planted. Lawrence county farmers have found that Thorne wheat is adapted to conditions here and many of them have been growing this new variety. It is a beardless red wheat with brown chaff. It has a stiffer straw than most other varieties. It may not do well on poor soil.

Purkof wheat is probably the most hardy of all winter wheats and should be used where late planting is necessary or on soils not well adapted for wheat purposes.

Nittany wheat (Pennsylvania No. 44) is a large straw, bearded wheat which outyields most other varieties on the least-fertile soils.

CHILDREN NEED PARENTS' ATTENTION AND HELP

Parents should spend as much time as they can with their children. This warning comes at a time when parents are all too likely to give less and less time to their children.

Because of the many important jobs to do and so little time in which to do them, there is a tendency for parents to cut short the time they spend with their children. This results directly in handicapping the children.

Children need attention as much as they need vitamins. If parents do not give this attention voluntarily, children often act in undesirable ways to get it. Children soon learn that if they are bad enough for a long time they are bound to get attention; even this is better than none at all.

Lack of attention may cause the child to retire into a dream world. In this world he can make people act any way he chooses. He soon stops facing reality, preferring to retreat into his dream world when things do not go his way.

Children growing up today need all the help they can get from their parents. Good examples set by parents are of priceless value. Children also need to have the customs of society interpreted to them through the eyes of their parents. By such associations children get a feeling and understanding of what is expected of them.

Opportunities for sociability and interchange of thought between parents and their children are too often passed up entirely. The time spent around the family table can be made an instructive as well as a happy time for everyone.

Children cannot be expected to have the judgment or the basis for judgment of their elders. However, hearing events of the day talked over and getting the opinions of parents will do much to aid children in making wise decisions. Early sympathetic and understanding relations between parents and children will encourage children to turn to their parents for counsel and advice.

BROOKLYN MERCHANT HAS REAL HEADACHE

NEW YORK.—(INS)—Exasperated by numerous questions about a smashed window in his Brooklyn store Israel Gralla put up a sign: "It wasn't a tank. It wasn't a bomb. It wasn't a customer. It was a car, and how!" But Gralla's burst of whimsy proved a boomerang. Neighborhood children discovered the words could be set to a chant, and their sing-song repetition of his words has caused him to wish for the questions instead.

Psycho-Neurotic In Every Office; Psychiatrists Say

Employers Amuse Experts Who Refuse To Hire Psycho-Neurotic
Returning Vets

By MARTHA KEARNEY
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(INS)—They used to call it being "set in your ways" but the modern trend toward simplification has tied a red ribbon around its neck and called it "psycho-neurosis."

Psychiatrists and public health service mental hygienists, hooting at selective service reports of employer reluctance to hire psycho-neurotic veterans, summed it up thusly today.

"There's at least one psycho-neurotic in every office," a public health official said derisively. "Draw a bead on someone who can't work efficiently if his little self-devised routine is upset and you have a grade-A' psycho-neurotic."

Cannot Get Jobs

Col. Arthur V. McDermott, New York City selective service director, touched off the charge when he declared that many ex-servicemen find that employers do not want to hire or re-hire them if they have been discharged from the army as psycho-neurotic cases.

Psychiatrists said that you or your boss or your best friend can fall into the same category without marring your efficiency or endangering your mental balance in the slightest.

A man who maintains a rigidly adhered to schedule and a definite order of business is psycho-neurotic and may be an excellent worker," a public health service psychiatrist said. "Of course if you pick him up and put him into a new and unfamiliar job where he finds his little ritual disorganized he may be completely useless."

Two men can go into the army from civilian jobs with about equal capacities and potentials. Say by way of very simple illustration that both are used to having a mid-morning cigarette and cup of coffee.

Examples Cited

"One man may adjust himself without trouble to drilling through the mid-morning and missing his cigarette and coffee. The other is unhappy, jittery and inefficient because he can't get used to missing it."

"The second man is a psycho-neurotic by army standards. That doesn't mean that he has the slightest desire to chase people around with carving knives or pick a fight with his sergeant. He simply isn't much good in the new environment."

Public health service officials pointed out that many veterans and civilians alike are anxious to do jobs which are not suited to their particular talents.

This, they said, in wartime or peacetime will produce a maladjusted personality with psycho-neurotic tendencies.

"There is no connection between being psycho-neurotic and being mentally defective or insane," they declared. "The army neither accepts nor discharges insane persons."

Navy's Postal System Follows
Fleet Moves

The Navy's postal system moves along with the fleet, and many days old, it is ready to begin distributing the mail to the fighting men.

An example was the invasion of Kwajalein in the Marshalls. Three days after D-day, while the combined forces were still in action against the Japanese, the first airplane carrying mail arrived.

Postal officials expect 25 million Christmas packages to be mailed to bluejackets, Marines and Coast Guardsmen overseas this year. Mailing period for the gifts has been set for between September 15 and October 15.

Former Resident Dies In Seattle

A former New Castle resident, Nettie Stephenson Bowen, died in a Seattle hospital Tuesday morning, just one week after the death of her husband, David W. Bowen, according to a telegram received from her son by Mr. and Mrs. James M. Smith, friends of the Bowen family.

Mrs. Bowen was the daughter of Benjamin and Emma Stephenson of New Castle. Her mother will be remembered by many who attended the local high school, where Mrs. Stephenson taught after the death of her husband.

The leadership of the Bowens in Seattle civic life began soon after their marriage in 1890. They are survived by a son, Harry Stephenson Bowen; a daughter, Mrs. Beth Bowen King; six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Funeral services will be held on Thursday.

High Gridders Working Hard In Football Camp

Forty Young Men Encamped At Muddy Creek Falls, Two Staff Workouts Daily

SIXTEEN HOLDOVER RESERVES ON HAND

It hard work and a determination to learn is any criterion then New Castle High "Red Hurricane" football team is going to be among the leaders in Class AA this year in Western Pennsylvania. Forty young men are encamped at Muddy Creek Falls under the watchful eye of Head Coach Philip H. Bridenbaugh, and Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner.

Two intensive workouts daily will toughen up the boys for the grueling battles that await them when the 1944 season starts a week from this Friday night, bringing Har-Brack high here for a night tussle.

Learn Fundamentals

Monday and Tuesday the boys were given exercises that tend to loosen up the muscles and today, Thursday, Friday and Saturday morning will get stiffer workouts. Monday and Tuesday the fundamentals were thoroughly gone into, and learned by the hopefuls. Today, the boys had a chance to put those fundamentals into practice and for the rest of the week will get scrimmage and signal drilling, tackling the dummy, pushing the new charging sled around the spacious field, hammering the blocking dummies and the backs will skip tires.

Running signals on the first team yesterday which by the way is only temporary were the following at ends—Fred Wimer, Ed Jackson and Jim Garberry; at tackle—George Williams (close to 200 mark) and Lynn Betts; at guards—Frank Hannon and Mustapha Hannon both holdovers from the reserve team of 1943; at center—Joe Kulins and Dick Fehrenbach; in the backfield—Bill Andrews, Bill Walls, Chuck Sallie, John Benkas, Sammy Florida, and Tony Panella. Those boys who look mighty promising are—

Ira Brown a linebacker, Jim Abraham, Walter Smith and Tony Cavelli all from Franklin, and Bob Post from Washington.

Sixteen Holdovers

The following holdovers from last year are in camp—Fred Wimer; Bill Walls; Bill Andrews; Lynn Betts; Anthony Panella; Charles Sallie; Dick Fehrenbach; Joe Kulins; John Benkas; Sammy Florida; Ed Jackson; Jim Garberry; Frank Hannon; Mustapha Hannon; Bob Reed and Tom Allison.

The following new boys from Washington and Franklin football teams last year are in camp—George Williams, Franklin; Dave Dean, Franklin; Stan Grzybowski, Franklin; Arthur Hill, Franklin; Bill Shaw, Franklin; Ira Brown, Washington; Richard Wynn, Washington; Phil Richards, Franklin; Herb Stewart, Washington; Walter Smith, Franklin; Tony Cavelli, Franklin; Pete Stack, Washington; John Faltko, Franklin; Don Gurgola, Washington; Ed McQuinn, Washington; Pearson Furst, Washington; John Parker, out of town; Bob Post, Washington; Harold Harris, Washington; Red Angelo, Franklin; Jim Stoner, Franklin, and Bob Reus.

Seven Coaches In Camp

The following student managers are on hand at camp to see that the needs of the boys are well taken care of—Ray Owo, Earl Hawk, Ed Malinowski, and Amelio Russo. These boys have a tough job doing all the errands and packing all the equipment from the main hall to the playing field twice each day.

There are nine supervisors in camp—Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh, Assistant Coaches—Bill Kline, Clay Thomas and Paul Cuba; Junior High Coaches—Austin Commenow, George Binder and Tom Swathers; Property Custodian Bob Stewart and Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner.

Epworth Threatens Lead By Highland

New Castle Church Golfers Meet Thursday For Important Matches

Highland U. P. church golf team with a point and a half lead over Harbor U. P. hopes to retain the lead Thursday night at the Castle Hills golf course when Epworth will be met.

Epworth is three points out of first place with 15½ points to 18½ for Highland and the low-handicap Epworth hanker to upset the North Hillers. Harbor plays First U. P. and may run into trouble. Mahoning only three points from first place will tangle with First Presbyterians and hope to take the match. The other match finds the Baptists and First Christians battling, neither team can hope to take the honors but it will be an interesting match nonetheless.

The league will end on Thursday night September 6 with the playing of matches postponed from Thursday, August 17 by a rainstorm.

The schedule for the final match on September 6 will be as follows: Mahoning vs. First U. P. Harbor U. P. vs. First Presbyterians. First Baptist vs. Highland U. P. First Christians vs. Epworth.

Football Technique Big Aid To Navy Ace

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(INS)—

The same football technique that made him a grid star at De Paul University made him the Navy's No. 1 ace in the air battle over Saipan, also known as "The Marianas Turkey Shoot," Lt. Alexander Vraciu, Jr., 25, revealed today.

On that day—June 19—he destroyed six Japanese planes in eight minutes, of which only one minute was elapsed firing time.

The tall, blond flier, son of an east Chicago, Ind., policeman, is honeymooning here with his childhood sweetheart, the former Kathryn Horn, 20. He had downed 19 Jap planes in combat and 18 on the ground.

Fighter Pilot's Dream

"It was a fighter pilot's dream," Lt. Vraciu said of the "Turkey Shoot" during a news conference today.

"We went out at high altitude," he said, "and from a far range we could see scattered groups of from 20 to 50 Jap planes. They were all Japs (dive bombers). For some unknown reason they were all massed together at high altitudes. They were 35 miles away when we started. And as they tried to separate from their groups I was able to apply the simple process of picking them off the edges. You might say it was comparable to riding herd in the air."

Tells Of Feat

As to his record-breaking feat, over a straight 35-mile course, Lt. Vraciu explained:

"Just as the first Jap plane approached my belly tank ran dry. I shifted to an auxiliary supply tank and took that fellow fairly easy. In making the shift, a lot of oil got on my windshield and made visibility so poor I had to go with in 150 yards of the next one before stooping that interference."

"The next two were knocked over on a run of about 15 seconds. Next on the line were three heading for an American destroyer. I was able to get two of those, and must have hit the bomb of the last, for he exploded."

Lt. Vraciu's squadron bagged 41 enemy planes that day. Not a man was lost.

Tigers Making Bid For Flag

Dizzy Trout Wins 22nd As Tigers Trip White Sox, Yanks-Sox Split, Browns Win

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(INS)—In the event the Detroit Tigers manage to overhaul the St. Louis Browns and nail the American League pennant to the Briggs Stadium flagstaff, a gent name Dizzy Trout can take a sweeping bow. He today is the No. 1 hero of Tiger land.

The gent called Dizzy scored his eighth straight victory, his fifth shutout and his 22nd win of the season yesterday over the Chicago White Sox, 7 to 0. He also batted in five of the Tiger runs with single, a double and a homer, and at the finish of the festivities the Tigers had advanced into second place in the standings, knocking the Boston Red Sox into third and the New York Yankees into fourth.

Browns Sculp Indians

The Tigers moved up four games behind the pace-setting Browns, who lost no ground themselves by defeating the Cleveland Indians, 8 to 3 in a night contest, Denny Galehouse hauled the victory.

The Red Sox and Yankees cut each other's throats by splitting a double-header. The Sox took the opener 8 to 1 on the six-hit hurling of Rookie Clem Dreisewer and lost the nightcap, 11 to 2, against the eight-hit pitching of Rookie Floyd Bevens. Both winning pitchers were making their major league bows. Bevens was helped along by Oscar Grimes' three-run homer.

The Philadelphia Athletics twice belted the Washington Senators in a twilight-night double header, taking the first game 3 to 1, and the nightcap 11 to 4.

The highlight of National League competition was furnished by the St. Louis Cardinals, who were hurled to a three-hit, 3 to 0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds by Ted Wilks, who thus scored his 14th triumph against one defeat.

Pirates-Cubs Split

The victory increased the Cards' lead to 19 games over the Pittsburgh Pirates, who split a double-header with the Chicago Cubs. The Cubs went on a rampage to win the opener, 15 to 4, then lost the nightcap, 5 to 4. Paul Derringer won the opener for the Cubs and Preacher Roe took the afterpiece for the Pirates.

Bill Voiselle hurled the New York Giants to a victory over the Boston Braves, 4 to 2, and a Gregg won for the Brooklyn Dodgers over the Philadelphia Phillies, 2 to 1.

The Netherland men were about five feet tall.

STOCK MARKET TREND HIGHER

Market Improves Fractionally During Trading Of Morning Hours

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(INS)—The stock market improved fractionally today in more active trading, scoring a technical improvement after the recent decline. A wide variety of industrials led the gain which mounted to nearly a point in some of the popular issues. In the second hour the advance took on new vigor with Chrysler and U. S. Steel up about a point. Sugar stocks were active, Pajaro and South Porto Rico Sugar were up a half point each. Utilities moved forward small fractions. Aviation was uniformly higher except United Aircraft which eased 3-8. International Telephone sold at a new high. Phelps Dodge and Kennecott improved about a half point. Although traded light, Montgomery Ward and Westinghouse Electric picked up nearly a point. Rail issues and the stocks were slightly better. Oils were quiet and firm.

Hunt Assaultant Of Louise Stanley, New York Actress

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(INS)—Actress Louise Stanley was assaulted mysteriously early today by an unidentified assailant in a Park avenue rooming house and is in a hospital suffering from possible concussion of the brain and lacerations of the face.

Detectives have been forbidden to question her until she shows improvement. The attack occurred in room 917 of the Ambassador hotel which was taken in the name of M. L. Lloyd. Hotel officials, however, said the room was occupied by Mrs. Stanley's fifth, and divorced, husband, Lt. Charles A. Mann, Jr., a naval ferry pilot and member of a society Philadelphia family.

Police were not notified of the assault until two hours after it occurred and said they knew no details. Mrs. Stanley asked detectives to notify her father, Alvin Keys, who is assistant director of the Illinois state department of public safety.

Miss Stanley, known as one of the nation's best-dressed women, was first attended by a woman physician, Dr. Louisa McLanahan. Her condition worsened and she was taken to the Lenox Hill hospital.

Mrs. Munn's first husband was Douglas O'Keefe, Springfield insurance salesman. She was next married to Lee Bennett, a musician; her next husband was Movie Star Dennis O'Keefe. Later she married Jack Randall, singing motion picture cowboy. This marriage ended in divorce but the couple were remarried only to divorce again.

One American Officer Brings In 946 Germans

Record Of Some Kind Is Made By Lieutenant First Held By Germans

By GRAHAM HOVEY (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE U. S. SEVENTH ARMY IN THE GRENABLE SECTION, Aug. 30.—Lieut. Clarence Coggins, 24-year old rifle company commander, who in peacetime is an ice-cream maker in Poteau, Okla., set some kind of a record for bagging prisoners last Friday when he personally escorted 946 Germans into the American lines northeast of Grenoble.

"I took me ten trips in trucks to get 'em all back and I didn't finish up until three o'clock this morning," grinned Coggins, whose chance to achieve the tremendous haul came about because he himself was taken prisoner by the Germans Wednesday night.

"My company's mission was to maintain two roadblocks," Coggins related. "At 11 p. m. Wednesday Capt. Hurd Reeves of Miami, Fla., Capt. Herbert Johnson of Syracuse, N. Y., and I walked down one of them to see why our communications were out, and we found ourselves surrounded by Jerries who had overtaken us.

Reeves and Johnson got out of the trap, but I was captured along with 11 of my men. The Germans marched us until 8 a. m. Thursday, when we reached Domene. "Then they began taking me to their battalion command post at intervals and asked me lots of questions. Finally, in the evening they sent me back to our lines with a request for surrender terms. Riding in a French car carrying a white flag, I got through okay to my battalion commander, Lieut. Col. Philip Johnson of Portland, Me."

Soon afterwards, Coggins continued, he went back, accepted the Germans' surrender in Johnson's behalf, and the job of hauling out the prisoners began.

As Coggins finished his story at the regimental command post, Major Williams, the executive officer, came in and said:

"Say, you can write down this outfit's haul of prisoners for today more than 1,200—another one of our officers, Lieut. Peter Oddo of Saddle River, N. J., just picked up more than 200 by himself.

"While Oddo was out on reconnaissance he met French troops who tipped him off about an enemy artillery outfit waiting to give itself up—so he went over and piled 'em up.

"It seems they wanted to surrender to Americans rather than to Frenchmen—they're probably smart, at that."

The regimental commander chuckled: "When one man brings in more than 900 prisoners and another bags 200, things aren't going so badly."

Fairview Church One And A Half Centuries Old

Dr. Grant E. Fisher Preaches Anniversary Sermon At Church Founded In 1794

Fairview Presbyterian church located at Pughtown in the West Virginia Panhandle celebrated its one hundred fiftieth anniversary on Sunday, August 27, with special services, at which Dr. Grant E. Fisher, of Adams street, this city, a former minister of the church, gave the anniversary sermon.

This church with never over 350 members at any one time gave 13 of its sons to the gospel ministry, two of whom held pastorates in the Shenango Presbytery. Nicholas Pittenger was the first settled pastor of Westfield Presbyterian church near Mt. Jackson, and James Pittenger was pastor of Bethel.

An outstanding feature of this church is the fact that four generations of Pittengers in succession served in the eldership. The years of their combined service as elders covers the 150 years of the church's existence, a circumstance which is probably unexcelled in any one church in the whole Presbyterian denomination.

Rev. Joseph S. Pomeroy, a native of Lawrence county and brother of Judge Pomeroy, was pastor of the Fairview church for 21 years. Like most village and country churches this one has had fluctuations in its membership but it is still flourishing and keeping the gospel light burning.

Interest has renewed in "A Passage to India," a novel by Forster published 20 years ago but still considered exceptional among the many volumes written about that country.

As one of a list of 100 books cited recently as the outstanding books of the past two decades by Dr. Henry Seidel Canby, it is one to which readers' attention is called by Miss Alice Sterling, librarian.

It is one of the novels, together with books of non-fiction, plays and poetry that make up the literary nominations of the founder of the Saturday Review of Literature, that are available at the public library.

Remember A. A. Milne's "When We Were Very Young" and "Arrow-smith" by Sinclair Lewis for which was offered him the Pulitzer prize in 1926 and declined, and Willa Cathers' "Death Comes for the Archbishop"? These are included among Dr. Canby's selections.

So are "Seven Pillars of Wisdom" by T. E. Lawrence, "The Time of Man" by Elizabeth Roberts, "Show Boat" by Edna Ferber, "The Magic Mountain" by Thomas Mann and "The Bridge of San Luis Rey" by Thornton Wilder, which was awarded the Pulitzer prize in 1928 as the distinguished novel of the year.

And who could forget "Bambai" by Felix Salten, "Swan Song" by John Galsworthy and "Kristin Lavransdatter" by Sigrid Undset, or "All Quiet on the Western Front" by Erich Remarque, now so ironic.

"Of Time and the River" by Wolfe is one of Dr. Canby's candidates for literary immortality. So too J. B. Priestley's "The Good Companions", and "The Good Earth" and "Dragon Seed" both by Pearl Buck.

Anyone who missed reading some of these books or who wants to reread a particular favorite will find them at the public library.
